

Stories, territories, experiences. Without borders.

Wine is culture.
And it tells far more than what ends up in the glass.

Wining.it is an independent editorial project with an international outlook. We tell stories about wine, gastronomy, territories, hospitality and experiences as keys to understanding people, cultures and identities.

We believe in a form of journalism that goes beyond the news: interviews, reportages, in-depth features and original video productions to discover places and stories.

A network of Italian and international authors and contributors, with content in Italian and English, helps connect Italy with the world. Editorial collaborations, including the one with A tavola con l'arte, broaden the dialogue and enrich the quality of the storytelling.

For us, wine is not just about tasting: it is history, geography, landscape, work and knowledge. That is why our perspective also extends to wine tourism, art, craftsmanship and hospitality.

A world to discover,
stories to tell.
